Milo's

Brave Little Step

A story of courage, one small step at a time.

AGES 5-7

An illustrated storybook

Milo loved little adventures: a new path, a smooth stone, a bird he had never seen before.

Today, he and Grandma were going to the meadow. Milo hoped to find the blue flowers she loved best.

He packed his green bag with a snack, some water, and a little map.

“Ready?” called Grandma.

“Ready for anything!” Milo said. He pulled on his red scarf and hurried to the door. At least, he thought he was ready.

The path curled between the trees like a long, golden ribbon. Milo pointed to the bend ahead.

“The meadow is this way!” he said.

Grandma walked a few steps behind him. Together, they followed the little map into the woods.
